Mr. VERNON, OHIO. ADDRESS OF SECRETARY DELANO.

MT. VERNON, October 11 .- Scoretary Delano addressed a large and enthusiastic meeting at the Court House in this city last evening. Mr. Delano reviewed at length the past history of the Republican and Democratic party, making comparisons between the property of the Republican and Democratic party, making comparisons between the party making comparisons and party making comparisons between the party making comparis sons between the two with remarkabl clearness and force. He dealt severely with the Klu-Klux white leaguers and other things of the Bouth, whom he de nounced in the bitterest terms. He recounted injuries now being inflicted upon negroes in the leterable to the country of the country of the leterable to the country of th regroes in the late rebel States, and clear! negroes in the late rebelbistes, and clearly foreshadowed the course which the administration would adopt toward those people. The Secretary argued that the emancipated blacks were in measure, the nations, warde, and until the persecution, rapine and murder on account of race, color or previous condition should cease, the duties devolved on the Republican party by the Almighty on the Republican party by the Almighty would not be fulfilled. He stated that the obligations of the Republican party were to elevate and improve this class of people and protect them in their right before the law, and if the great party of ideas should desert its principles upon any collateral issues and neglect to perform its obligations toward those whom it had lately invested with citizenship and the elective franchise, that it deserved to be better that the control of the control and the elective franchise, that it deserved to be beaten and most assuredly would be praished. The Secretary gave the Prohibitionists some sound and friendly advice, and warnet the Republicans from being drawn oil upon side issues to the abandonment of higher and more important questions. He thought that personal liberty; the right to hold real estate and dispose of personal property; the right of free locomotion; and, in a word, the guarantees of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, were worthy of some consideration, and that the man who ignored eration, and that the man who ignored all these for one ideal hobby, let it be temperance, religion, trades unions, or any of the still more modern isms, was pursuing a course calculated, if not de-signed, to restore the Democratic party to ower, and thus to defeat rather than to power, and thus to deleat rather than to attain the objects desired.

Referring to the troubles in the South, the Secretary remarked that the people of the South had recently written and spoken much regarding the President, probably hoping by flattery and fawning to cover up their real purposes of rapine, murder and anarchy, and that while professing great loyalty to the Government and the utmost solicitude concerning the President, the rascals had been shipping and distributing arms among their oathbound assassins to bring about the very revolution which was so recently inaugressed.

He de-monstrated the statesmanship of the Remonstrated the statesmanship of the Re-publican party in dealing with this question and explaining how taxation had been reduced since the close of the war, and especially during President Grant's administration. The Secretary then adverted to the repudiation sent-ments of the Depart it. ments of the Democratic party and de nounced them severely, he asserted that those who had purchased bonds during the war were patriots worthy of all praise; that to dis-honor our notes discounted under such circumstances, and for such a consideration, namely, the life of the nation, would be an act so dishonorable as never to be

Buren He said, in conclusion, that the mission of the Republican party would not be ended till the civil rights of the emanci-pated race were fully secured, and law and order placed on a solid foundation in and order placed on a solid foundation in the entire South, nor till the sacred obli gations of duty in regard to the publidebt were everywhere acknowledged, and therefore Republicans should stand by their colors and not be misled nor de ceived by collateral issues, canningly de-vised, to divide and defeat the great party which saved the Union.
